By ALINE THOMPSON

Mrs. W. Melvin Plimpton went to Portland Wednesday to attend the Rose Festival. While there she will be the guest of Mrs. Willis Dunaway and Mrs. Harry Turry.

Tonight Mrs. Kate B. Vaughn will give a lecture and demonstration for the young women of the Y. W. C. A. in their clubroom at eight o'clock. All women interested in home made and food values are welcome.

That cooking and home making is after all the subject of greatest interest to the representative women of Salem has been demonstrated in the attendance daily at Mrs. Vaughn's cooking school.

Tomorrow is the last day and the lecture will be given in the morning. At the close of the session Mrs. Vaughn will give away her kitchen cabinet.

Friends of Mrs. Frank M. Brown will be grieved to hear that she is very ill with the measles.

A group of young folk enjoyed a picnic up the river last Saturday afternoon. The party was conveyed in a launch and included the Misses Rosamond Gilbert, Gertrude Cunningham, Ada Ross, Laura Ross, and Misses Maxwell Ball, Tinkham Gilbert, Lloyd Shisler and Lloyd Haight.

Monday evening the members of the '15 class of Willamette University gathered at the home of Paul Purvine for a jolly informal evening. Games formed the diversion and later refreshments were served.

Those present were Misses Mulkey, Bartholomew, Barton, Beaman, McBride, Foklin, Fields, Bunner, Miller, Miller, Léat, Irvine, and the Messrs. Paul Irvine, Sackett, Tobie, Harry Irvine, King, and Baine.

Mrs. Edgar L. Martin (Alta Altman) who has been the guest of her parents Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Altman, left Thursday for Los Angeles where she will join Mr. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Connell Dyer accompanied by Miss Gertrude Koltz motored to Portland Thursday where Miss Koltz joined her parents.

The members of the W. C. T. U. were entertained on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. M. Law in charge of the "Mothers Day" work and the affair was a mothers meeting.

During the afternoon a programme was given as follows: solo, Miss Amy Martin; prayer, Mrs. J. N. Good; scripture reading, Mrs. Law; song; readings, Mrs. S. E. Oliver, Mrs. W. W. Rosebrough, Mrs. Armstrong and Miss Healy. Mrs. Cromwell of Los Angeles closing greetings from California. Hymn prayer was given by Mrs. Armstrong; song, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Later a social time and refreshments were enjoyed. Mrs. Law was assisted by Mrs. Robinson, Miss Healy, Miss Keints and Mrs. Galvin.

About thirty members were present including Mrs. S. E. Oliver, president; Mrs. L. M. Bowerman, Mrs. Piche, Mrs. Emma Armstrong, Mrs. J. N. Good, Mrs. S. A. Martin, Mrs. Rosebrough.

A Man's Worth

depends upon his power to produce what the world recognizes as of value.

And when you skirmish around you'll find that this power—which is just power of mind and body—depends to a remarkable degree on the food one eats.

For highest accomplishment one must have the best values in food—food which builds well-balanced bodies and brains.

Grape-Nuts FOOD

has that kind of value. It contains all the nutriment of whole wheat and barley, including the important mineral elements so often lacking in the usual dietary.

Grape-Nuts comes ready to eat, is easy to digest, nourishing, economical, wonderfully delicious—a help in building men of worth.

HUGHES NAME IS

Kendall, nominating Cummins, urged amendment of the republican and progressive and was cheered vociferously. The Iowa senator drew a parade of the Iowa and Minnesota delegations, followed soon by the Nebraska representatives.

Roosevelt Nominated. Senator A. B. Fall answered for New Mexico on the roll call to nominate Roosevelt. He was given a tremendous ovation.

"This convention has adopted a platform which every loyal citizen can support in the coming election, and upon which every loyal citizen can become a candidate."

"You have declared your intention as to the internal policies of this country and you have also gone on record as to our foreign policies. I want to call your attention to the fact that our internal policy may be changed only for a moment, the welfare of the country will be affected."

"But in your foreign affairs one act of omission or commission may change the history of this country forever and effect the destinies of one hundred million people. Upon the policies you make them in the critical period we now face, it behooves you to be careful in selecting your leader. The eyes of the leaders of the great warring nations are upon the proceedings of this convention today. The hopes of every neutral nation are that you may secure able and effective leadership in the protection of their neutrality rights and ours."

"Prayers are being offered that you may unite under one banner."

"Follow citizens, in the vision of every leader of the great warring factions, there appears one colossal figure of American manhood."

Here Fall paused while a storm of applause broke. It threatened to grow into a demonstration but was stilled by the senator's own appeal.

"On the breath of every nation, there is borne the name of one great American."

"Mexico, torn by civil strife, has made her plea to you and most nobly you have responded. You have given them their promise and every American pleads with you to select as your leader one man whom they know will carry out your promise."

Here some Hughes boosters interrupted with the shout:

"It's Hughes," and they were blessed down. Harding interferred. No republican convention has a hiss for another republican in this convention," he admonished. "If the galleries continue, they may listen to the convention from the street outside."

"Of course it was not necessary that I receive that assurance," Fall resumed. "You have heard the record of the various candidates who have been offered you. This man's record, as well as his private life, is as open as the day."

"I name for your consideration and your votes, Theodore Roosevelt, of the United States!"

Pandemonium broke loose instantly. A yell that swept up against the platform like a tidal wave burst against the dome of the hall and reverberated back.

"Big Archie" Stevenson, national committeeman from Colorado, led the parade which followed. The southern states were first in line. Alex Moore finished a yelling solo on behalf of the Pennsylvania delegation.

Not a man arose or cheered in the New York delegation. One Ohioan waved a flag. Most of the cheering came from the galleries where women's shrill voices mingled with the heavier bass of the men's yells.

Senator Harding watched the scene for a moment, smilingly, and then sat down to let it quiet itself. Tennessee and North Carolina were the first delegations to take the aisles, Tennessee carrying its standard.

"Big Steve" by this time had become so overcome with enthusiasm that he stood in the aisle, completely blocking it.

A young lady in gray with a sombrero, in the left gallery was literally insane with enthusiasm. Somebody produced a cowbell and rang it continuously.

New Mexico then started a parade, Tennessee's attempt to swing one having failed. Nevada and Idaho followed in the other aisle, while all the time an ear splitting volume of sound continued.

The parade, however, did not gain recruits.

"We want Teddy!" came the insistent refrain in thunderous accents, cutting the dull roar of noise of the rest of the shouting like a blade.

A gray haired woman, with waist torn and skirt pulled around, clambered up to the press stand and tried to lead the crowd in cheering. She said she was Katherine Rutherford of Chicago. She carried a tiny American flag and went time to the yells of "We want Teddy" with that.

"We want Teddy," with that. Her skirt was so disarranged that she finally had to stop long enough to button it up the front again.

"This is the way we do it in Illinois," she kept shouting, but her words were indistinguishable three feet away in the tumult of noise. The band didn't even try to play. The aisles were choked with a moving mad mass of humanity.

Charles D. Biles sat biting his finger nails. Borah broadly smiled. Joe Cannon joshed with Jim Watson. Boise Penrose sat as silent and expressionless as a sphinx but Senator Oliver, his clear friend, warmed up a bit.

Senator Spooner evidently was pleased. Chauncey M. DePew quit his joking for a minute. Murray Crane never batted an eye.

Fifteen minutes passed and there was no indication of any abatement in the volume of sound. When Harding at this juncture sought to restore order, the yells merely redoubled.

Uncle Joe Cannon regarded the dem-

Coliseum, Chicago, June 9.—The republican national convention this afternoon gave its record cheers of the day for Theodore Roosevelt, placed in nomination by Senator Albert B. Fall of New Mexico, the T. R. boosters lifted the roof off in the biggest, noisiest, most picturesque demonstration since the convention opened.

In the midst of the noise, the sun came out and the Roosevelt boomers halting this as an augury of good to their cause, redoubled their yells, their pounding of feet and their waving of flags.

The demonstration started at 5:00 p. m. It was still in progress, with even greater volume than when it first began, at 5:39. The best previous cheer record of these was that accorded to the name of Senator Burton—thirty-four minutes.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth arose, but did not otherwise take part in the demonstration.

Up in the back galleries, Mrs. Root, the woman with the weird voice, cut loose with her demonic yells again, just to add to the general uproar.

Miss Rutherford tried hard to get a rise out of the Illinois delegation, standing on the platform in front of this section—but she was not successful. Two gallants from Ohio responded with vigorous cheers.

Mr. Nichols Longworth arose, but did not otherwise take part in the demonstration.

this juncture Governor Whitman and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler came to the stage to demand that the chair stop the cheering, alleging that the noise came from the galleries and not from the delegates.

The demonstration finally tapered off into occasional cat calls and applause. It had lasted 41 minutes.

DALLAS ITEMS

(Capital Journal Special Service.)

Dallas, Or., June 9.—A force of men under the direction of District Supervising Fire Warden W. V. Fuller, are engaged in the construction of about four miles of new telephone line in the timber in the western part of the county. The new line will run from the main line to a lookout station on the top of Bald Mountain. The new station at this point will be a great help to the patrolmen as an observer can obtain an almost unobstructed view of the whole Siletz Basin and can therefore warn the patrolmen in the different districts if he sees a fire. The old telephone lines are also being put in to repair and the trails cleared of timber that has fallen into them during the winter months and the whole district being put into shape for the handling of fires should any occur the coming summer. Owing to the untiring efforts of Supervising Warden Fuller, the amount of timber destroyed by fire in this county in the past couple of years has been very small.

Beckett May Be Recalled. A move is on throughout the country to recall Clyde Beckett, one of the county commissioners. The movement was started at a meeting of the Taxpayers League organized a few weeks ago, and is now being backed by the farmers' union. A joint meeting has been called for the unions and taxpayers on June 15 at 1:30 p. m. at which time the sentiment of those in attendance will be taken regarding the recall of Commissioner Beckett.

R. W. Coffin of the Western Union office returned today from the Rose Festival.
